CHEKHOV THEATRE STUDIO

MICHAEL CHEKHOV Director

What the critics think about the acting of Chekhov's first professional group which is the outgrowth of the Chekhov Theatre Studio:

"There is a remarkable unity among the players . . . You would not find another company in a New York theatre that could show anything like so much ability to take any attitude, flow of line, variety of gesture and facial mask . . . The diction of the company is above the stage average." — Stark Young, "The New Republic."

"Under Mr. Chekhov's experienced tutelage the young actors . . . acquitted themselves of their first public assignment with honor." — Rosamond Gilder, "Theatre Arts."

"Mr. Chekhov's players acquit themselves with confidence and with a good deal of credit." — John D. Beaufort, "Christian Science Monitor."

"They act like players who take the drama seriously and have been well brought up in the most civilized ways of the theatre." — Arthur Pollock, "Brooklyn Eagle."

"The large and capable cast gives every benefit of sincere and thoughtful performance." — "Cue."

Registration now open. Winter term starts January 8. Apply for particulars to:
